SELECTION CRITERIA

Scholarships will be judged and awarded based on the following criteria:

- Academic, athletic, or other achievement (community, volunteer, etc.)
- Leadership capabilities
- Achievements, awards and recognition at school, in the community, and/or personal activities
- Creativity and quality of video submission

Awards will be made without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, disability or other protected classifications.

HOW TO APPLY?

Complete this form and your video by May 3, 2021 and submit to Florence Copper.

Florence Copper is an in-situ copper recovery facility located in Florence, Arizona. Currently, Florence Copper is completing work for its test facility and advancing in the permitting process for commercial operations. More information about Florence Copper can be found at florencecopper.com.

The Fun Part.

As part of the application process, we are asking students to record and edit a two-minute video (or shorter) answering the question: What role does copper play in new and emerging technology? The role of copper in the future?

We encourage you to be creative. Act a play, sing a song, recite a poem, or anything else. The more creative the video the better. No fancy equipment is necessary. Cell phone recordings are just fine. We are looking for videos that are creative and educate an audience about how copper has many uses in emerging technology and will be important in the future.

Basic editing can be done with programs such as iMovie (for MAC users) or Windows Video Editor (for PC users). There are also ways to edit from smart phones using apps. Still photography options used in these programs will be accepted with sound effects (voice narrative, sounds or music added). Tutorials for how to use these programs can be found online. Final submission must be in a supported YouTube file format. Any music must meet YouTube's copyright guidelines.
